

ACATS Transfer Request

Instructions

Use this form to transfer your assets “in-kind” from another financial firm to your Betterment Account. Please use a separate form for each account you’re transferring to Betterment. Please ensure that you’ve removed any restrictions on your account, paid any fees, and settled your margin debt, outstanding trades, and other debits.

List ALL names EXACTLY as they appear on this account. Include any trustees. The two accounts must have at least one owner in common.

Betterment Account Information:

Do the assets listed to the left equal the total holdings of the account you are transferring?

- NO – I currently hold other assets besides those specified in this account
- YES – My account balance is comprised only of those assets specified

Signature and Authorization (Read Carefully Before Signing):

You direct the Sending Account, or delivering firm, to:

- Transfer your account to Betterment as you have instructed on this form, even though the Betterment Account may have a different account title or different taxpayer identification number than the delivering account.
- Deduct any outstanding fees from the credit balance in your account. If a credit balance does not exist or does not cover the balance due, liquidate assets in the account to the extent necessary to satisfy the balance due.
- Freeze your account when this transfer is validated, which includes canceling all open orders and not accepting new orders on the transferring account (except for transactions closing option positions that expire within seven days).
- Release any requested historical information to Betterment about the account you're transferring.
- Transfer any physical certificates in good deliverable form, including any necessary tax waivers.

You acknowledge and accept that:

- Any assets not readily transferable might not be transferred within the time frames set by FINRA (e.g., by FINRA Rule 11870) or other applicable authorities.
- If transferring assets in a retirement account, none of the amount transferred includes the required minimum distribution that you are required to take this year.
- Betterment is not responsible for changes in the value of assets that may occur during the transfer process.
- If an account transfers to Betterment with a debit balance, you are responsible for satisfying the debit balance.
- Rebalancing transactions may occur unless you have requested, and Betterment has confirmed, that rebalancing is disabled in the receiving account. Rebalancing transactions can result in the purchase and/or sale of securities in accordance with your investment strategy.
- You are aware of any tax or financial implications that may arise in connection with this transfer or with the sale or liquidation of any assets prior to transfer, including penalties, fees, financial losses, or losses of product features or benefits. You acknowledge that you have not received tax advice from Betterment. You should consult with a tax professional before signing this form.

Further, if transferring a retirement account, you affirm, if you are 70½ or older, that this transfer will not violate IRS rules on required minimum distributions.

Last, you agree to indemnify and Betterment and its affiliates and their respective officers, employees, and agents (collectively, Betterment) harmless from and against any liability incurred by Betterment for relying in good faith upon the information provided in this form.
